FIRE AT WELLSBURG

A fire occurred at Wellsburg yesterday unalified as a notary public, filing his bond with Clerk learned to a fire of the order of the order. lestruction of the principal and most cenral business square of the town. It was bout 10 o'clock when flames were discovered issuing from the roof of the building occupied by the Herald office, R. Wheelr's hardware store and Thomas P. Grimes and Dr. J. T. The principal loss is the Herald office, all the paper stock being destroyed, the presess and paper cutter being datasged by water and the type for yesterday's edition being pied. At the time of the outbreak of the first the forms were being prepared for the press and one form had been locked, but before the last page matter had been arranged the whole force were compelled to leave the premises. While everything in the Herald office is in a demoralized condition, Mr. Jacob, the enterprising proprietor, said he would have his regular issue out to-day. Mr. Jacob's loss will be at least $1,000, which is covered by insurance, fortunately, this time. His insurance would have expired two hours after the fire had it not been that Dr. Cooper, the agent, had it renewed not more than that many hours before. Mr. Jacob has been rather unfortunate in the line of fires, having had two or three buildings destroyed uninsured within the last few years.

The building adjoining the Herald office is owned by Oscar Seeley, of this city, and occupied as a plumbing shep by Schnelle & Unarnock, whose loss will be slight, and is covered by insurance.

The only thing that saved Wellsung from a disastrous configaration yesterday was its excellent city works supply of water. It is said that the strength of the stream was safficient to remove the shingles from the roofs of houses.

The same night the President's office of the Kanawha Valley Bank was set on free by a coal rolling from the grate to the floor, but the fire was discovered by Mr. E. L. Boggs, who has rooms over the bank, and by the use of a hand-hose he succeeded in extinguishing it. The damage will be $100.

That afternoon fire was also discovered in a building owned by J. R. Baldridge and occupied by Abe Petty, but it was extinguished after damaging the building to the amount of $100. The building is insured in the Phenix Company of Brooklen.

MRS. LORING'S FUNERAL. he Remains Followed to the Tumb by

The funeral of Mrs. Alonzo Loring took place yesterday afternoon from Monu-ment Place, the family residence at Elm Srove. It was very largely attended, the number of people that went out from the city being largely augmented by those from other parts of the county. There seemed to be a general desire to express the sympathy that is so generally felt for the sadly afflicted husband and children the sadily afflicted husband and children.

The number from this city included people of all classes, both old and young, and a great number prominent in business and social circles. Many went out in the carriages that left at noon and many more went out on the 1:30 Hempheld train, returning at 3:30 on a special. The services, which took place at 2 o'clock, were conducted by Rev. R. Rush Swope, rector of St. Mathews P. E. church, of which Mrs. Loring was a devoted member. The services were aweetly impressive and solemn. The floral offerings were profuse. Mesers, L. S. Delaplain, Robert S. Woods, Lucten Hoge, John G. Hoffman, sr., A. W. Campbell, J. N. Vance, O. C. Dewey and John H. Hobbs acted as pall bearers. The remains were taken to the old Stone Church cemetery, where they were placed in a vault.

This is thickly and substantially walled in fire brick, and inside this with a space of six inches a wall and roof of pressed brick glazed inside with porcelain. This makes the interior light and handsome. The vault is fitted with a pring and locks automatically. The wault is should be a small but very strong safe. At the Engligh Lutheran church reopening services will be celebrated. At the Zance Street M. few weeks, or perhaps months, all symptoms and conditions described increase, the eyes are red, sometimes painful, the light hurts them, the sight is blurred by the excess of tears, the granulations become larger, and finally a film commonces at the upper side of the cornes, and pushes forward until the sight is obstructed with a whitish coat and little blood-vessels are seen running towards the pupil. They are better and worse alternately; a fresh feruption of granulations causing great pain for a few days.

These Chronic Granulations never get well without the most skillidi treatment, and as they are so very dangerous to the sight and to the health, no person affected with them should depend a moment on their own remedies, or physicians who have not had special study and experience in their treatment, for all are sure to fail, and thus, not only valuable time is lost, but the eyes are greatly endangered and probably so much deformed as never to look as well again, even if the disease is all removed. Frequently the condition known as "wild hairs" is produced.
